State Gets In Step To Reap National Legislative Benefit

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—One of the major tasks of California's unprecedented mid-summer legislative session was refashioning its statutes to conform with President Roosevelt's drastic recovery program.

First of such laws to be approved was a cluster of bills amending the state banking code so it would line up with the Glass-Steagall congressional act, principal feature of which was bank deposit guarantees.

The Glass-Steagall bill, of course, applied only to national banks over which it had jurisdiction. To make the banking picture uniform it was necessary to pass a group of bills.

Another bill was the state recovery act. Objective of this legislation was the same, in effect, as the banking legislation— namely to bring state laws into line with the President's National Industrial Recovery act.

Also in this category was a measure by which the state statutes would line up with the Roosevelt agricultural relief legislation.

Finally, there was a bill qualifying California to accept $16,000,000 for federal aid road construction in this state.

All these socalled emergency acts passed through both houses without much comment. Not so the emergency legislation of the Great Central Valley Water Project. The fight on the issue of whether or not that proposition would be considered developed into one of the bitter squabbles of the mid-summer session.

Federal-inspired amendments to the water project $160,000,000 revenue bond issue bore a strong public ownership flavor. This fact, it was reported, aroused opposition of the conservative rules committee which possessed the power to determine whether or not the amendments could be considered.

Proponents of the project claimed the amendments would have to pass to qualify under the federal public works program. Twice the rules committee turned down the water bill. Finally, a resolution was introduced in the senate virtually compelling the rules committee to permit legislative consideration of the amendments. Then, and only then, did the hard boiled rules committee open the bars.

STATE TO SELL THREE MILLION RELIEF BONDS

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—Sale of $3,000,000 worth of the $20,000,000 in unemployment relief bonds voted at the special June 27 election will be negotiated by the state unemployment commission.

Proceeds from the sale of the first block of bonds, probably to the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation, will be used to finance the state's one-third share of relief work for the next three months in the form of loans to counties.

The remainder of the funds for relief work is supplied by the counties and the federal government.

LONESOME DOG TRIES IN VAIN TO GO HOME

Pal is the name of a big black, shaggy dog with white markings. Pal is a friendly fellow and old and very warm, stepping into the Nugget office where he had a friend and where—it was cool-After the usual amenities of greeting Pal passed into the back shop. Thoughtfully he took himself out of the way by crawling under the press and going to sleep.

Closing time came. Pal's friend looked for him but could not find him, so locked up. Pal woke in the night, and found himselt alone. He wanted very much to go home to his mistress.

He howled his dismay. The night watchman heard the dismal sound but could not locate it. Listening and hearing no help coming, Pal set out to free himself. He began by gnawing a panel in the door. It was too thick. Then he took a running jump through a big pane of glass in the old fashioned door at the rear of the shop. He found himself in another enclousure but not free. Exploring he discovered a small sized hole in the board wall and began to enlarge that by gnawing again. But before it was big enough to let him through morning came and with it his friend, who unlocked the front door. Pal greeted him with a reproachful look and weary wag of the tail, and started for home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen of Chico spent last week end with his brother Robert Allen, and wife in Nevada City.

NEXT ALOCATION OF SCHOOL FUND 68 MILLIONS

By MELVIN LORD

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—On the basis of attendance figures just compiled by the state department of education the state will have to pay out more than $68,000,000 in the next allocation of schools funds.

This estimate includes the county shares taken over by the state under terms of the Riley-Stewart tax plan passed at the June 27 election. The allocation will include approximately $41,962,982 for elementary schools, $24,883,772 for high schools, and $1,696,970 for junior colleges.

As estimated on the old allocation basis. Nevada county elementary schools would receive $51,759 and high schools $20,539. Under the new tax plan the elementary allocation will be twice as much and the high school funds tripled.

While attendance at public schools increased this year to a total of 696,-249 average daily attendance for elementary, 275,449 for high schools and 18,797 for junior colleges, the average rate of gain dropped from 3.3 per cent to 2.18 per cent.

The gain in elementary schools, for instance, was only 3,952 studenth as compared to 10,246 the previous year.

This gradual drop in the percentage of increase was explained by the department of education as the effect of immigration laws passed in 1924 and now being felt directly by the public schools for the first time.

The immigration laws restricted the entrance of persons particularly from southern Europe where large families are the rule. California, as a sea coast state, was particularly affected by this change in immigration laws, officials claim.

SHERRIFF MAY SHOP FOR FOOD FOR HIS GUESTS

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—Sheriffs may do their own "shopping" in the purchase of food for prisoners in county jails, according to an opinion by Attorney General U. S. Webb.

The opinion definitely states that the peace officers are not required by law to make necessary food purchases through the county purchasing agent.

Under California law each sheriff is entitled to an allowance based on a certain price per meal fixed by the board of supervisors.

SHERIFF CARTER JOINS "FORTY AND EIGHT"

Sheriff George R. Carter was initiated into the 40 and 8 Legion organization at Truckee Saturday evening, A greater part of the degree work was done on Commercial Row one of the main city streets. The new organization is known as Voiture Locale of the 40 and 8 will cover Nevada county. The name is taken from the placard on French railroad box cars used during the war. The cars accommodated forty men or eight horses.

Miss Josephine Lambardine of San Francisco was te house guest over the week end with Mr. and Mrs. C. Genasci.

MINER FINDS ANCIENT IRON COIN IN GRAVEL

An iron coin, more than 150 years old, and probably the pocket piece of one ofthe early gold seekers, was picked up yesterday by R. E. Malaby, while he was working his gravel claim in the Monte Cristo district near Downieville.

He reports that the United States Treasury, under Alexander Hamilton issued a few such coins with a silver overlay. In the coin he exhibited at the Nugget office, the silver overlay had long since vanished, but despite the ravages of rust the American Eagle and the motto 'E Pluribus Unum" was still plainly discernible. The other side probably never carried a design.

Malaby states that the issue of iron coins overlaid with silver was quickly withdrawn, but that the few coins that did gain circulation have now become the rara avis of numismatic collections. He believes that old iron coin is worth far more than its weight in gold.

PIONEER OF OREGON BAR CALLED TO REST

Mrs. Mary Jane French Mitchell, oldest member of Menzanita Parlor, N. D. G. W., who passed away at home in Grass Valley Saturday at the age of 79 years, will be laid to rest tomorrow afternoon in the French Corral cemetery. The obsequies will be in charge of W. R. Jefford and Son.

Mrs. Mitchell was born in 1853 at Oregon Bar. When her young mother appeared with her, the first born of Oregon Bar, 200 miners lined up with their shovels and presented arms in her mother's honor.

GANGSTER TACTICS WIN MEAL IN JAIL

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—Shaping his course in the manner of screen gangsters wasn't such a hot idea, William Coleman, 18 admitted.

Thrusting his hand in his coat pocket—the approved film gangster pose for carrying a gun—William sauntered into the coffee shop of a downtown hotel and demanded food. The waiters scurried to supply his wants, apparently, but called the police instead.

RHEBA SPLIVALO TO RESIGN WHEN BUDGET PASSES

Mrs. Rheba Crawford Splivalo
Director of the State Public Welfare Department

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—With all her evangelistic flair for dramatics, comely Rheba Crawford Splivalo has offered to die a political death if the legislature will give her social welfare department more money.

Mrs. Splivalo is director of the department. Almost from the start of her administration, she has incurred wrath of legislators who felt she was inefficient and extravagant.

The legislature's antipathy toward Mrs. Splivalo rather than its economy beliefs was largely responsible for the unprecedented cut in the department's 1933-35 budgetary allowance as compared with the preceding biennium, it is said.

BUDGET CUT

Mrs. Splivalo asked—almost demanded—approximately $400,000. Hardboiled legislators looked grim and proceeded to apply the economy axe. When they got through ,her budget was $144,000.

Legislators know the department cannot operate efficiently on that amount. They realize an additional appropriation should be granted. But they are loath to give another cent as long as Rheba is in office.

Consequently the personable young

Governors Are Given California Welcome

No expense was spared in giving the visiting group of delegates to the governors' convention a royal welcome to California Saturday and Sunday.

Guns boomed and crowds cheered on their arrival in Truckee where they witnessed a characteristis California merry making and celebration. Thousands of cars took the three routes to Truckee and Lake Tahoe Saturday and Sunday. Traffic over the three highways reached a peak for this year. The Ukiah Tahoe highway traffic probably exceed any previous record.

The Nevada county board of supervisors, County Clerk R .N. McCormack, Sheriff George Carter and other officials attended the celebration. Scores of Nevada City residents motored to Lake Tahoe yesterday and witnessed the dedication of Governors' Grove.

Early in the morning a caravan of new sedans conveyed by five or six state Traffic Patrolmen, each car driven by one of the traffic officers passed swiftly through Auburn to be placed at the disposal of the visiting governors and their families for the trip down to Sacramento, where they were guests of Governor Rolph at a great banquet. This afternoon the assembly chamber in the capitol was vacated ,and easy chairs replaced a sufficient number of the desks there to make every governor quite comfortable. To all practical purposes the legislature adjourned while the governors were there.

At last night's banquet the menus printed in the State print shop in three colors cost approximately $2.50 each.

Two airplanes were chartered to convey the visitors to San Francisco where they wil lhold part of their deliberations. From there they will go to Los Angeles.

It is estimated that the vist of the twenty governors in this party will cost the tax payers $20,000 or $1,000 each. California maintains its tradition for hospitality, depression or no depression.

DELINQUENCY OF JUVENILES LESS

By MELVIN LORD

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—California's juvenile crime wave appears to be receding according to a report of the state department of social welfare.

As indicated in a report filed with Governor Rolph by Mrs. Rheba Crawford Splivalo, director of the department, there was a decrease in June in the number of youthful first offenders at liberty on probation.

The total on the probation list last month was 11,775 boys and girls, or a net decrease of 332. The number of girls on "supervised liberty" however, increased form 3,459 in May to 3,529 in June, the report revealed.

Collections made by the juvenile probation officers throughout California totaled $15,566 during June, an increase of $1,816 over the previous month.

In Nevada county there were 18 boys and six girls on probation last month, the report stated.

"The state's probation system is having a far-reaching affect in aiding youthful first offenders to stage a comback and, at the same time, win their self-respect," Mrs. Splivalo said.

TRAMP HAS 250 COLLAR BUTTONS ONE SHIRT

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—There'll be no turmoil arising from lost collar buttons this man's house hold—when ,and if, he ever settles down to home life.

Cleaning up a vacation lot in the residential district, a city crew found a coat, two loves of bread, an assortment of razor blades, one shirt and a big bag containing 250 collar buttons. They were turned over to the city manager's office. Soon an angry itinerant appeared and demanded his property.

"I never lack for a collar button, even though I might have only one shirt," he explained.

WATER FLOW HEAVY

OGDEN, Utah., July 20—(UP)—Ogden's famous cold drinking water is being onsumed at the rate of 15 million gallons a day, or 375 gallons a person, H. F. Irvin, assistant superintendent of the city water works department, revealed in a reort recently.

AVIS GODFREY DROWNS IN BAY

The many friends and classmates of Miss Avis Godfrey will be terribly shocked to hear of her death. She jumped from the lift span of the San Mateo toll bridge about half way between the San Mateo and Alameda county shores yesterday.

For a time she struggled in the water, the shock of the leap and plung into the cold water apparently having decided her to make a fight for life.

She succeeded in swimming to a mud bank, and then, while horified sectators watched and a Coast Guard boat and a launch, with Sheriff J. J. McGrath and Deputy Sheriff Adolf Waldeck of San Mateo hastened to the scene, her hold loosened and she sank from sight.

Her identity was learned from the license number of her car left on the bridge. Her San Francisco address was 1555 Masonic Avenue.

Miss Godfrey had not been strong since a severe attack of pneumonia about a year ago and all this last winter and summer she had been greatly overworked in her responsible position as head nurse at the Health Center, due to so much necessary charity work. During the last few days she had been very ill and was advised to let the work go and come home for a rest.

Surviving Miss Godfrey, besides her mother, are the following brothers and sisters; Berl and Ruth Godfrey of Nevada City, Elizabeth Godfrey and Mrs. Desber of Sacramento Donald and Charles Godfrey of Alleghany, John Godfrey, Albert Godfrey of Los Angeles, and another brother in the Phillippine Islands. Godfrey's wide circle of friends has

SACRED WHITE BUFFALO BORN IN NATIONAL PARK

MOIESE, Mont., July 24—An albino buffalo, so rare a creature that white men are not believed to have been more than 10 of its kind, was born on the national bison range near Moiese this season.

White buffalo were extremely rare even when millions of the shaggy animals roamed western plains. Indians considered them "big medicine," and would pay a price of 10 to 15 horses for a good albino skin. After three or four years the natives would offer the skin as a sacrifice to the wind and rain.

Dr. W. T. Hornaday, famed scientist, estimates that no albino buffalo ever reached maturity, so highly did hunters and Indians prize the skins.

YOUTHFUL HIT RUNNER IN MOTHER'S CUSTODY

William F. Leary, charged with hit and run driving and driving while intoxicated, appeared in the Superior Court Friday. The proceedings developed the fact that Leary was under age and his case was referred to the juvenile court. A previous probation in the juvenile court was revoked and the youth was remanded to the custody of his mother until futher order of the court.

Sales Tax In Effect In August Is Forecast

By RALPH R. TAYLOR

SACRAMENTO, July 24—California's new tax set-up, involving the most revolutionary change in the state's taxation system in many years, will not be made a political football or a catch-all for political job-hunters!

That pledge and clear-cut statement of policy comes from State Controller Ray L. Riley and Fred E. Stewart of the State Board of Equalization, joint sponsors of the Riley Stewart plan and both, as members of the equalization board, directly responsible for administration of the new tax system.

REVENUE EXPECTED IN OCTOBER

It is a pledge of tremendous importance to every California taxpayer, and especially to agriculture and business and industrial groups, for it is exceedingly probable that the administration of the tax program will prove a dominant factor in its success or failure.

First revenues under the new sales tax, incidentally, will probably pour into the treasury about October 1st, with the tax becoming effective, however, in August.

BUSINESS, NOT POLITICS

Riley and Stewart in outlining their plans for collecting the tax, revealed that they are fully aware of the great responsibility which rests upon them in administering the system.

Controller Riley, who is also an ex-officio member of the Board of Equalization, bluntly declared that "The collection of millions of dollars in taxes is business, not politics!"

"I am willing to accept my full share of the responsibility, with the Board of Equalization and the memness of the first importance and, so the administration of this tax," said Riley, "and I am quite aware of the fact that the situation is packed with dynamite. The peole are in no good mood to forgive either inefficiency or dishonesty and it is extremely vital, from every standpoint, that men be chosen for this work because they are honest and able. This is busines sof the first importance and, so far as I am concerned, it will be considered solely from that standpoint."

COUNTIES TO TAX UTILITIES

Concurring in Riley's declaration of policy, Stewart announced that te Board of Equalization, which will handle the tax plans to set up a separate sales tax department, together with another department fo the valuation of utility property, looking to the return of utility property to local rolls in 1935.

"No tax is a popular tax," Stewart declared, "but it is essential, in this period of emergency, that the people should be given the fairest and cleanest tax administration that it is humanly possible to conduct.

NO FAVORITES PLEASE

"The men who are engaged to administer this tax must have the highest degree of integrity and first class ability, backed up by experience regardless of how good their political references may be. They must be exacting, but fair. They must not harass the merchants who, in this instance, will act as the state's tax collectors, but they must see that no favorites are played and that the state gets every dollar to which it is entitled.

"This new tax system, by giving badly needed reief to over-burdened property owners, can be of real benefit to all California if it is properly administered and we intend to do everything in our power to make it a success."

WHAT THE PRESS THINKS OF HIRAM JOHNSON

By United Press

Another "battle of the centry" seems in prospect when U. S. Senator Hiram Johnson and "regular" Republican meet in the political arena next year.

Already California editors have started campaigns in support of, and opposition to, the senior senator from this state.

"Hiram W. Johnson continues to be lucky in his enemies," said the San Francisco News. "Last fall they set the stage for his dramatic declaration for Roosevelt when they challenged him to say where he stood as between Roosevelt and Hoover. And now they are giving battle on just the ground where our senior senaotr is strongest. For instance: Mark Requa, Mr. Hoover's No. 1 California friend and lientenant, made a speech in Bakersfield attacking Senator Johnson and the direct primary system with equal enthusiasm. Its immediate result was a resounding counter-blast from Hiram's friends and admirers."

Apropros the attack on the primary law, the Sacramento Union remarks:

"We want the direct primary law liberalized, not destroyed. Assembly Bill 2083 (which would return the old convention system of nomination) must be defeated at all costs. The fight to make it law is backed by men who would destroy democracy to defeat Hiram Johnson. They can't control him; therefore they are determined to destroy him."

"Just from the standpoint of practical politics," comments the Ventura Star, "could anything be more stupid than this attempt to rally the people against Johnson because he had the foresight and the independence to support for president a man who enjoys today the deepest and widest measure of popular approval won by any president in our times? California is proud that Hiram Johnson has played a major part in winning this opportunity for Roosevelt and in launching the new deal. A state that long ago repudiated narrow partisanship will honor Johnson for putting his own convictions and the interests of his country above loyalty to a party label."

Taking the opposite view, The Humboldt Standard declares: "No one will deny to Senator Johnson the right to follow his own convictions; support whom he pleases for president down to dog catcher. But all this should be done outside and not within the Republican party. Johnson is either a Republican in principle and practice or he is not. If he is not, he should have the decency to leave the party, or the party should have the guts to throw him out."

The San Rafael Independent takes issue with the claim that Johnson is a progressive, saying: "There would be some basis to the claim had Hiram supported Roosevelt through sincere belief that he was the better man and if he had contributed to the subsequent success of his candidate's administration. Hiram, however, supported Roosevelt, not because he was overly enthusiastic about the man's qualifications but because he hated Hoover. He has done nothing to further the success of Roosevelt's administration, apparenty being content he had assisted in removing his enemy from the White House. He is quite willing, however, to bask in the reflected glory of Roosevelt's popularity.

"If Johnson wins the Republican nomination," said the Napa Daily Register, "there are thousands of Republicans (including the editor of the Register who never voted for a Democratic U. S. Senator in all of his life) who will be anxious and willing to support the Democratic nominee. Contrariwise, if Johnson loses at the primary, most of his supporters will no doubt align themselves with the Democrats in the November election. What a break for the Democrats of California."

BIG REVIVAL IN HORSE RACING IS FORECAST

By MELVIN LORD

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—California's dictum that pari-mutuel beting on horse races has put into movement a vast machinery looking toward the rejuvenation of racing in California.

Encouraged by the huge vote in favor of legalized betting, horse breeders are anticipating a successful series of racing meets.

The official vote, as announced by Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan, was 805,209 in favor of the horse racing amendment and 478,580 against. In Nevada county the vote was yes; 1,954; no, 906.

While new tracks are being planned throughout the state, particularly adjacent to large cities, the most recent development was the announcement of the board of state fair directors that this year's exposition in September would be featured by an extraordinary track program including both running and harness races.

The pari-mutuel betting machines are to be installed beneath the huge fair grounds grandstand, it was announced.

While ambitious plans for racing programs continue to go ahead under the new law, the appointment of a racing commission was yet to be announced. The delay was caused partly because of a mixup in bills, the governor having signed one measure that called for a commission of five members, and another providing for three members subject to confirmation by an unfriendly senate.

Another angle of the racing question was seen in the introduction of a bill by Assemblyman Walter Sullivan, Compton, legalizing pari-mutuel betting on dog races. It is estimated such a plan would bring millions of dollars into state coffers in addition to the revenue from the horse race betting.

STATE TREASURER MAY BUY CANES FOR BLIND

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson is in the cane business—and it's all a mistake.

It all started when Johnson sponsored a resolution in the legislature declaring white canes with red tips the official canes to be carried by blind persons, and calling upon citizens of California to extend every courtesy to persons carrying such canes.

In some way the word got out that Johnson would give 1,000 of the canes free. Said Johnson:

"What I said was, I would like to give a thousand canes."

He's going to try and get the canes just the same.

CLOAK ROOM THIEF TAKES SOLON'S WATCH

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—After this members of the senate will work with one eye on the cloak room.

Senator Ralph E. Swing of San Bernardino halted proceedings recently to announce that a $200 watch had disappeared from his coat in the cloak room. He advised other senators not to leave any valuables in clothing left in the room.

Having revealed his loss, Swing discovered that other members of the upper house had lost fountain pens and similar articles.

SKEPTICAL BURGLAR PRYS OPEN SAFE TO SEE

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—Some people positively will not believe in signs.

The safe at the local officce of the Shasta Water Company having been "jimmied" many times, the manager decided to hang a sign over the strong box reading: "This safe contains money." Along came a burglar with a "doubting Thomas" complex. With the aid of a crowbar and considerable labor he managed to pry the safe door open.

It was empty.

ROLPH LOSES IN SOLON VETO WAR

By THOMAS B. MALARKEY

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—How much did the legislature's amazing and unprecedented revolt against the administration damage Governor Rolph's chances for reelection? That's the question many political satellites are pondering these days.

If the opinion of legislative leaders count, the veto overriding rampage just about added the final killing touches to the governor's chances. On the other hand, others believe the rough handling received at the hands of the legislature might awake public syspathy for the governor's plight.

In any event, political history was made during the hectic frist days of the mid-summer session. Prior to the Rolph administration, no governor's objection to any bill had been repudiated for over 40 years. But the legislature marched back to the capitol July 17 and batted down vetoes right and left. Even the San Francisco delegation—generally pro-Rolph—voted to override a number of gubernatorial vetoes.

The governor did, however, score two major victories. His veto of the state employes salary reduction measure was sustained; also the veto of the oleo-margarine tax bill. In fact, supporters of the latter declined to bring up the issue. They didn't want the administration to enjoy the public satisfaction of beating them.

What is there so attractive about the $4,000 job of lieutenant governor? Its lack of work and responsibility? Because its a political stepping stone?

Anyway, many candidates for Lieutenant Governor Frank Merriam's job are in the making. Most prominent democratic candidates is F. C. "Todd" Clowdsley, democratic floor leader and probably the most popular man in the legislature. Clowdsley was unanimously endorsed at a democratic caucus. Northern Bourbons came back with an offer to support any southern California democratic gubernatorial candidate.

Speaker of the House Walter Little is seriously considering announcing his candidacy. If, for some reason, he doesn't, C. Ray Robinson, republican floor leader, may cast his hat into the ring. Robinson has worked his way up to the top in two sessions.He's smart, alert, assured and Senatorial opposition killed chances of Roland Tognazzini, for the insurance commissioner $6,000 job. Rolph was set to appoint him but senate leaders sent word he would never be confirmed. Then the governor submitted the name of Robert M. Clarke, Los Angeles. The upper house promptly confirmed him only to learn later that Clarke had refused the appointment.

Aggressive and effective Asemblyman William Hornblower was mad the other day . . .he had supported the administration in many veto conflicts . . .but, he said, there were no administration representatives on hand to help him marshall votes . . . he marched down into the governor's office and conveyed his sentiments to Rolph . . . probably the "hardest boiled" committe in legislative history was the rules committee . . that group ruthlessly killed scores of bills submitted by hopeful legislators . . . but it also took a licking when the senate forced it to permit consideration of the Great Central Valley water project revenue bond act . . . Governor Rolph is in his glory while visiting governors are here for their national conference . . .possibily no other governor in the state's history is better fitted for the role of genial host than Rolph.

A letter received from Mrs. Elsie Willoughby ,who is spending her vacation in the mountains near Mendocino City, states they are enjoying camp life. Her son, Ralph, was lost eight hours in the mountains. A posse searched for him but he managed to find his way home alone.

HIGH SCHOOL COMEDIES BENEFIT STUDENT FUND

CAMPTONVILLE, July 19.—The Camptonville Branch of the Marysville Union high school put on an evening of comedy Saturday evening in the auditorium of the local Masonic Hall before a big audience, and the several students who had part in the plays did their parts very well and a substantial sum was taken in which will go to the treasury of the student body for school expenses.

Mrs. Kate Hope Livingston, local high school teacher, who has been in charge of the local high school for over eight years put in much time in drilling the students for their parts ,and much credit is given the teacher for the manner in which the affair was put on.

Mrs. Livingston, a member of the staff of the Marysville Union high school, and for several years a member of and President of the Yuba County Board of Education ,has one of the most remarkable branch high schools in the state .It is probably in one of the most remote sections with children attending from various places. It affords the children in these parts an opportunity to obtain two years more of high school education that some of them would probably not be able to obtain, and the scholars who have graduated from the local schools and gone on to other places have been learning students and carried high marks in the other schools.

Mrs. Livingston is highly valued in the community in which she lives, the community of which she has become a part of, and the community in which she puts forth her energy and efforts for the coming generations.

SMALL BOY COOLS CAT IN ICE BOX

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—Being a humanitarian isnt a profitable pastime at all, in the opinion of 3-year old Duncan Black.

The days was hot. On the floor stretched the family cat panting labrously. Nearby stood the ice box. "Why not?," thought Duncan.

An ice box containg roast chicken, cream and other delicacies for daddy's dinner wasnt exactly the place for a cat, Duncan agreed, as he gingerly rubbed the seat of his pants.

BIKE VETERAN FINALLY PURCHASES AUTOMOBILE

MODESTO, July 24—(UP)—Assemblyman E. H. Zion, an advocate of bicycling long before the present fad, finally had to succumb to the motor age.

For more than 20 years Zion was a familiar figure here on his faithful "bike."

Zion indignantly denied he was quitting his bicycle because his legs were getting "wobbly."

"The automobiles are getting too thick," he explained.

NOT A SAWMILL; JUST TWO MEN IN SNORE DUET

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—No, there hadn't been any permit issued to operate a sawmill at night in the residential district, police informed complaining residents.

Nor was there any record on file of building construction in that neighborhood involving the use of a donkey-engine. Suggestions that sleep-distrubing noise might originate with a street repair force using a highway scarifier were rejected with the statement that the road crews worked only during day-light hours. Officers were detailed to investigate.

The official report read: "Two men in the same block are holding a snoring contest; one emits a loud blast every ten minutes, the other maintains an even tempo through the night."

American Heroines
By LOUISE M. COMSTOCK

Ann Maria Lane

OUT of musty old records lying in the archives of the Virginia State library at Richmond has but recently been reconstructed the story of a heroine forgotten since 1808.

In that year, so read the moldering records, the state of Virginia granted a pension to one Ann Marie Lane, who fought "in the garb and with the courage of a soldier" in the famous engagement between the British and the American Revolutionary troops at Germantown, Pa., in 1777. We learn further that Ann Maria not only marched with a gun in the ranks, but "performed extraordinary military services" and was "disabled by a severe wound."

The known facts of this gallant woman's life are few. She has been identified as the wife of John Lane, a sailor in the Virginia navy, who took part in 1781 in the disasterous encounter in the James river at Osborne's Landing, when the state's fleet, six ships, eight brigs, five sloops and two schooners, met the superior forces of the traitorous Benedict Arnold, just come from looting Richmond. The state lost its vessels but few of its men. In 1798 we find John Lane, his wife and two daughters, living at Point of Forks, up the James, an outpost against the Indians. In 1800, when the insurgent Gabriel was prodding the negroes about Richmond to insurrection, the Lanes were returned to that city and lived at the barracks near the state capitol. Here, it seems, Ann Maria took to nursing the soldiers, caring for as many as fifteen guardsmen at one time.

In 1802 Dr. J. H. Fousbee, city health officer, wrote to Governor Monroe requesting that Ann Maria be allowed some recompense for her services. From his letter we learn that she was then an old woman, scarcely equal to her self-imposed task, and lame from that wound received at Germantown. It brought Ann Marie the "moderate consideration" of six dollars a month in addition to food and lodging! In 1804 the state finally gave her an infirmary for her patients.

But in the fall of that same year, judged too old and lame for her work, Ann Maria was retired and her name dropped from the payroll. In 1808, however, having investigated her case, Governor Cabell brought it to the attention of the state legislature. The state at that time eagerly adopted this Revolutionary heroine. They granted her a pension of $200 per year.

GOVERNORS ARE GIVEN A HEARTY WELCOME

Greeted with the heartiest of California welcomes, governors from all over the United States arrived in San Francisco today, to continue the sessions of the 25th Annual Conference of Governors.

From the moment the Governors' Special train crossed the California border at midnight Saturday, and was greeted by Governor James Rolph, Jr., and a 19 gun salute, the visitors have been royally entertained. Breakfast at Tahoe Tavern was a gala affair, and was followed by press interviews and photographs.

After the dedication of Governors' a shrewd political strategist.

John Quinn, Los Angeles county supervisor, also would like the republican nomination for lieutenant governor, according to reports. Quinn is a past national commander of the American Legion. He would be a strong candidate. He has also been mentioned as a candidate for governor.

Two Sacramentans are in the "being urged by friends" stage. One is Senator J. M. Inman, republican; the other, Superior Judge Martin I. Welsh, democrat.

Grove, the party motored to Truckee famous border town of early California history, for the Governors' Day and Frontier fete. Leaving Truckee by train shortly after noon, Governor Rolph and his guests, escorted by Adjutant General Seth E. Howard, military aide, and William H. Woodfield Jr., citizen aide, arrived at the State Capitol, Sacramento, for a banquet given by the city and the reception in the Governor's Mansion,

Mrs. J. Emmet Hayden, wife of the San Francisco supervisor, Mrs. Woodfield and Mrs. Alfred J. Cleary assisted Mrs. Rolph and Mrs. Angelo Rossi, wife of San Francisco's Mayor, in offering the state's hospitality to ladies of the governor's party.

This morning witnessed the opening sessions of the conference. Members of the State Legislature were guests at this business meeting. The entire governors' party arrived in San Francisco Monday Evening, in time for dinner, a parade to the opera house, where an elaborate program was scheduled, and the reception to follow.

NUDIST IN CAPITOL PARK NABBED BY POLICE

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—State police didn't think Capitol park was the proper place to house a nudist cult.

So, when a young woman dashed up and informed the officers there was a totally unclad male sunning himself on the terraced lawn, two patrolman hastily left for the scene. On arrival they found the man, sans clothing, basking in the sunshine.

Clothes meant absoultely nothing in his life, he told the officers during the pitched battle that followed. He was listed at the city bastile as "John Doe, nude."

GUARANTEE FOR STATE BANK DEPOSITS ASKED

SACRAMENTO, July 24—(UP)—In keeping with provisions of the congressional act governing national banks, an attempt will be made to amend the state banking act to provide for the gurantee of state bank deposits, according to Senator J. W. McKinley, chairman of the senate banking committee.

The California Bankers association was reported working on the proposition, although no definite proposal has been submitted yet in either the senate or assembly.

CALLS IN POLISH TO HENS; PROVES PROPERTY

GLASGOW, Mont., July 24—(UP)—A brood of 19 chickens that speak nothing but Polish are well-known to Sheriff Al Fassett now.

Fassett was called to aid the owner of the chickens when they turned up missing one day. The brood was located in the flock of a neighbor.

The neighbor denied stealing the chickens. "If they are yours, call them to you," suggested the sheriff.

Instead of a familiar "chick, chick," usually made to attract such fowls, the sheriff listened to a series of foreign noises. To his amazement the 19 missing chickens came running in a group to their owner.

"I'm Polish," explained the owner, "and I've always spoken to the chickens in that language, so that's all they know."

Thoughts of prosecution were dismissed.

RHEBA SPLIVALO

cabinet director—known as the "Anfel of Broadway" in her old salvation army days—has dramatically announced she will voluntarily resign if the legislature will give her department more money.

BEACHES FOR RECREATION

Mrs. Splivalo is now busily engaged in pinch-hitting for Aimee Semple McPherson in the pulpit of Angelus Temle at Los Angeles. She claims she is not paid and adds preaching is her relaxation.

"Some people like to drink, play golf, or do other things in their leisure hours," Mrs. Splivalo said. "I, on the other hand, would rather preach. That's my recreation."

Nevertheless, ever since Mrs. Splivalo has been in the temple, she has been charged with being involved in temple politics. The lawyer for Aimee's husband, David Hutton, asserted Mrs. Splivalo was partially responsible for David's removal from temple power.

Meantime, Mrs. Splivalo awaits the legislative verdict. She is determined to submit her resignation. But, significantly, Governor Rolph has not said whether he would accept the resignation if offered.

Ray P. Hawknis, business man of Alleghany, was a recent Nevada City visitor.

FLANDERS POPPIES BLOOM IN GARDEN HERE

Mrs. Luther Marsh brought a French Flanders poppy to the Nugget office last Saturday. The seeds were sent over to Mr. Marsh by the friends he spent a two weeks furlough with while overseas.

Mrs. Marsh made a large star in her yard and planted the seeds last May, and the blossoms brought to the office was the first flower. It was a little light in color and a little small, due to late planting and hot weather.

When Luther Marsh returned home in 1918 he sent the family some American music, and letters were exchanged for a few months, then a lapse of several years until the one received this spring.

Mr. Marsh is planning on sending them a gift of American cigarets of which they made inquiries in their letter.
